I am looking for:

Local user groups

- Want to meet local users.
- Want to organise a PUG in my area.
- Need support for my PUG: speakers, location, PG swag, funding.

Wider community

- Meet PG users worldwide (events).
- Want to organise PGconf, PG Day.
- Want to help promote Postgres at non PG-specific events.

Learning

- Want to learn PostgreSQL.
- Where to find utilities, helpful resources, courses, blogs, training, certification?
- Whom to turn to for help?

<Free> advice

- I am stuck and need help (with query optimisation, migration, backup and recovery etc.)

Professional support

- I don't have enough expertise and need help?
- Looking for a consultant or company to help with Postgres.

Hacking info

- Is there a roadmap?
- What is commitfest?
- What are different roles?
- Want to propose a patch idea/ write a patch.
- How to report a bug?

Job/Recruitment

- Looking for a job.
- Looking to hire a Postgres specialist.

Recognition

- Listing my company on postgresql.org
- I'm not listed among PostgreSQL contributors on postgresql.org
- Why contribute?

PASS Data Community SUMMIT 2023
Date: 2023-11-14 – 2023-11-17
Location: Seattle, Washington, United States
Language: English
The PASS Data Community Summit has historically been a conference focused on SQL Server and Microsoft Data Platform technology but, due to growing demand, this year we have bolstered our educational program with PostgreSQL specific sessions. We've included two full day pre-conference training sessions, a dedicated learning pathway and a host of general sessions to equip attendees with the fundamental knowledge necessary to unlock the full potential of PostgreSQL. Overall we are expecting around 2,000 attendees, so join us for a great opportunity to connect, share & learn with peers and thought leaders in the PostgreSQL community.

PGConf.EU 2023
Date: 2023-12-12 – 2023-12-15
Location: Prague, Czech Republic
Language: English
PostgreSQL Conference Europe 2023 will be held on December 12-15 in Prague, Czechia at the Clarion Congress Hotel Prague. At the biggest PostgreSQL event in Europe, you can expect three days packed with presentations about PostgreSQL and related technologies, one day of extended training classes, and the usual hallway and social tracks!

PGDay Israel 2023
Date: 2024-01-18
Location: Tel Aviv, Israel
Language: English
For the seventh time in Israel PostgreSQL enthusiast from all over the world join together to share their knowledge and experience with existing and/or potential developers and users of PostgreSQL PGDay Israel 2023 is a non-profit event hosted and run by the PostgreSQL Israel Community and will take place on January 18, 2024 in Tel Aviv. This event is part of the effort to grow the PostgreSQL community by increasing awareness and providing the appropriate resources to further PostgreSQL adoption

Want to organise PGDay, PGconf?

Community Conference Recognition

Last updated: September 21, 2023. View change history. View history before December 8, 2020.

The Community Conference Recognition programme is a voluntary scheme under which submitters of events to the PostgreSQL Website listings may self-assess their entry against the criteria below, and if they comply may market their event as a PostgreSQL Community event.

Events that do not meet the criteria will still be welcomed (where appropriate under the general listing policies) - for example, events organised by a single company which may still be valuable for people to attend, but are not necessarily what we would consider fully "open."

Use of the terms "MUST", "MUST NOT", "SHOULD" and "SHOULD NOT" in the criteria below should be interpreted per RFC2119.

General

- The event MUST be primarily focused on PostgreSQL and targeted at existing and/or potential developers and users of PostgreSQL.
- The event MUST adopt and follow an appropriate Code of Conduct to ensure a safe and enjoyable environment for anyone who wishes to attend.
- The event website, advertisments, notices, and any other related material MUST fully comply with the PostgreSQL Trademark Policy or receive permission from the PostgreSQL Community Association.
- The PostgreSQL Core Team reserves the right to recognise, not recognise, or rescind a previous recognition for any event without justification.
- Information that is required to be publicly disclosed MUST be available on the website of the event, or, if it is not possible to publish to the event's website, MUST be made available in the PostgreSQL Website events list.
- Events are self-certified as complying with these criteria when listed on the PostgreSQL Website. If an event is self-certified by the organisers and later found not to comply with the criteria, the PostgreSQL Core Team reserves the right to rescind the recognition of the event as a community event and, where appropriate, take further action up to a permanent ban on future event listings from the organisers.
- These criteria may be reviewed and potentially updated at any time.

ADDING YOUR BLOG TO PLANET POSTGRESQL

Adding your blog to Planet PostgreSQL is simple, and we encourage all people who blog about PostgreSQL to do it. Just follow the steps below:

1. Make sure your blog follows the policy.
2. If you don't have one already, sign up for a PostgreSQL Community Account (same as is used for example for the PostgreSQL wiki).
3. Go to the registration website, and add your blog.
4. Wait for the blog to get approved by the moderators.
5. Wait up to 15 minutes for syndication of your blog to begin.

Hacking

https://www.postgresql.org/developer/

Roadmap

- There isn't a formal roadmap.
- Developers are free to explore the topics of their choosing
- New features committed to PostgreSQL are thoroughly vetted by contributors and committers

Entry point

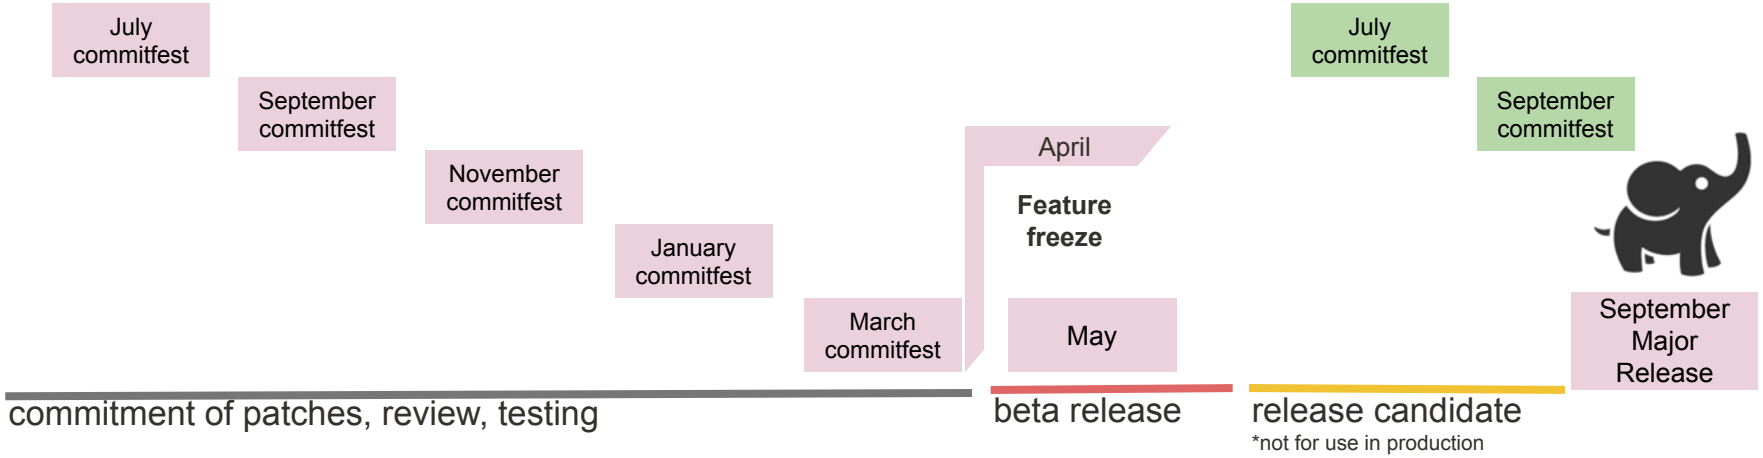
- subscribe to pgsql_hackers mailing list
- review patches first
- review prior discussions
- submit your patch to CommitFest https://commitfest.postgresql.org/

Hacking - CommitFest

https://commitfest.postgresql.org/

CommitFest Manager - manages a CommitFest and has responsibilities to help manage the list of patches.
Contributors - developers who review, test and getting new patches committed.
Committers - people with access to push to the git repository with their user names https://wiki.postgresql.org/wiki/Committers.

PostgreSQL versioning https://www.postgresql.org/support/versioning/



Hacking - Bug reporting

Guidelines (identifying bugs, what to report, where to report)

- Bugs: pgsql-bugs (mailing list, your email will be visible in public archives)
- Security: security@postgresql.org (closed list only for security issues. more info)
- Documentation issue: form

In open source you always know who pushed it and who wrote it!
